

JOSHUA PLANT, PH.D.

Dr. Joshua Plant is Chief Science Officer for Isagenix.

In this role, he oversees the research and development, product design and development, product commercialization, and quality assurance of all Isagenix products.

Dr. Plant has also been named Chairman of the Isagenix Scientific Advisory Board, a group of top medical and health professionals who lend their experience and expertise to ensure the integrity and effectiveness of Isagenix products.

CREDENTIALS

- Has a Doctorate in Biomedical Sciences from Harvard University, where he graduated first in his class and completed a 7-year program in 3.5 years.
- Received the prestigious National Institutes of Health International Research Fellowship, given to only 10 students each year.
- Held senior leadership roles and experienced in the nutritional supplement and direct selling industries. Previous positions include serving as Vice-President of Research and Development and also Chief Operating Officer of a health and wellness direct selling business . . . and Chief Science Officer of a supplement manufacturer.